

Contact the Shibboleth Project

For technical questions or any form of software support, assistance, advice, etc., you MUST use one of the mechanisms outlined on our Technical Support Options page, typically the users mailing list for non-members or our support portal for members, or <https://issues.shibboleth.net/> to file a bug report.

We will not provide technical advice or support or answer technical questions if you use the form below. You may get a response to this effect, but we will not provide support other than through the mailing list.

We also do not offer any formal consulting services. Companies known to offer such assistance can be found listed here, no endorsement implied.

Finally, we do not support the volunteer-operated TestShib service, which is now essentially dormant.

If you would like to report a potentially security-sensitive issue with our software, you can use the form below or send an email to security@shibboleth.net. It is not advisable to file a bug directly or to send anything about the issue to a public mailing list, and we're happy to triage to the issue to determine the appropriate response.

If you have an administrative question about the Shibboleth Project or the Shibboleth Consortium, you may use the form below.
